Performers Engaged to Entertain Crowds in the Grandstand.

Twelve enormous electric searchlights placed on top of the amphitheatre will be used in making the Virginia State Fair Grounds as light as day during the six nights, beginning October 6. These searchlights will supplement the various are and streamers of smaller lights scattered throughout the grounds, and the rays from them will penetrate every nook and corner of the vast inclosure. The lighting system will be in charge of City Electrician Thompson, who has secured a leave of absence for that week. He will use his knowledge of electricity to make the State Fair Grounds the greatest "White Way" in the South, and the safest possible place women and children can go to see the sights now planned for their entertainment.

men.

Jackson's presentation speech was as follows:

"A committee of representative colored men of the city of Richmond, in token of their respect and esteem for you, have selected me to present to you a silver service, which they desire you to accept as a gift from your colored citizens, in commemorating your sixty-ninth birthday. They desire me to say for them that for fear that others might put the wrong construction upon their patriotic move they requested me to get the opinion of one whose judgment stands for purity, and in whom the people of Richmond have the utmost confidence. I refer to the Hon. D. C. Richardson, judge of the Hustings Court, whose opinion was sought as to the propriety of presenting you this token of their respect.

Not From His Litigants.

"I will say for the committee which purchased this silver service, that it constitutes some of the very best of our race, and the members are from that class of men who seldom litigate in Your Honor's court, if at any time. They are citizens of wealth and of influence, standing second to none in the State of Virginia. Their motives are purely those that characterized the gentleman who presented you a silver cup a few days ago. Their aims and objects are the same and nothing more. They have the highest regard for Your Honor, personally, and Your Honor's effort to do justice to all the people of the city of Richmond, and they are glad of the opportunity to thus express their confidence in you, and your judgment in your daily deliberations upon the bench. All of them know you personally and fel that the people of Richmond, regardless of color, race or creed, are thankful to the city of Richmond for continuing you in office for these twenty-six or twenty-seven years, and they hope that you will continue in iffice as long as your health will permit you to preside."
